

ART BY: E. CHRIS LYNCH
WORDS BY: GOOD CLEAN FUN

out on the streets, a hot summer's day the kids getting hungry

as they frolic
and play

GRUMBLE

then comes the ringing sound it signals a plan

they quickly surrounded the evil white van eleven years old,

but they didn't flinch

their watergun barrels did not move an inch.

the driver was guilty
but he had no clue

raised in a system he'd never thought through

AND THE KIDS

TOGETHER!

they fought as one
and they beat the man

AND THE KIDS

TOGETHER!

they showed us all how to make a stand from that day on,

the dairy was gone.

he tried to fix what he had done wrong.

he said as he sold treats made from soy beans and rice.

cause its never too late to see the light to change your ways and do what's right the war wasn't over but the battle was won and now the neighborhood could have

GOOD CLEAN FUN

well now you know the story and now you know its true if little kids can change the world just think what we can do visit deeprootssanctuary.org

DO IT!

special thanks to good clean fun and to andrew for introducing me to their awesomeness and to all my friends who put up with me talking about wanting to do this zine for the past year. i love you all! ♡

P.O. BOX 171 Bloomington, IN 47402 chris @ deeprootssanctuary.org