CHAINSAW IS QUEER OWNED AND OPERATED.

It all started about 6 months ago in Olympia.... and now they call me the "great one." What I'm trying to say is my name is Max Square and I recently relocated to Portland. You see Jody Bleye offered me a job one night while at the Capital Theater. Hence now I'm here, delivering you the answers to all of yr favorite questions. First off, Jody will be gone until May. Second off the Kaia LP has been delayed, and that brings me to #3. The new Team Dresch will be out in the spring before the Kaia. Please don't order them until a post card shows up in yr mail box telling you that they are out!

I fur sure hope you ordered the Surf Maggots- "Are you there god? It's me maggot". It's fur sure one of the greatest recordings of our time. If you don't realize that now you will in the next decade or so. SO please show up when the Maggots invade yr town on their "Taco Land or bust" tour of the United States (in early April). Speaking of tours- (the) New Bad Things will be in Europe with a dozen extra guests and a peel session will come out of this little journey. So yes that means they will be doing a US tour in late April, when they return, if they return. Be somewhere or be some square. The New Bad Things will hook up with Team Dresch and Bikini Kill overseas. Belgium will never be the same. The Liberators European Vacation! Also, watch out for the New Bad Things new LP entitled "Society" out this Spring.

Gretchen Phillips (one of the former "Two Nice Girls") has a new LP due out any day now (today?) that will leave you with numerous emotions. Any album that talks abt. butt fucking is a fur sure must. The Vitapup vinyl is here, right now! It's packaging is beautiful and sounds more N.Y. then the big apple it's self. I love it and I think you will too! It's one truly cosmic LP! An hour, is not enough, gush, gosh, gush. I know this is a lamesville intro but what is there to say that won't be explained with diagrams in the pages to come. Jody wrote some amazing things for all of you to read, live, and learn but they were lost or destroyed in a recent rumble with the Wu- Tang Clan!

Chainsaw has just released the new Sleater Kinney and will be co-releasing the Kaia and Team Dresch with us so check out what Donna's doing, it's all good. Cynthia Star has been doing a lot of productive party in the office lately. So you see there is a lot going on and what you shall find inside will quicken your heart, I promise. For more news on what's shakin in P-town buy the new "No Room For Squares," it's like totally rad and like you must read it! So start shopping and be like us kids and wear your sunglasses at nite!

Here is the Laffy Taffy to laffy of the day: What did the fire say to the matches? (answer below) Send us embarrassing stories abt yourself or your arch enemy; we're busy but at times ultra bored. love candy (max) ass (cyn).

A Maggot Made Me Do It

I live by one thing and one thing only, "I found it on the street, gon'na take it home, It's Free!" I was a bored youth living in the SE district of Portland, OR. The music on the radio was totally dull and not much mattered to me, but one night it all changed. It was Halloween and I just happened to be at the right place (Madrona Hill Winery) at the right time (10:00 on the dot, the schedule time for the Surf Maggots to take the stage). With a name like the Surf Maggots I honestly wasn't expecting much, but when Josh Fireman, Ellen Crofts, and Mike Clark jumped on stage and opened up with tune that not only got me shaking but described my life I wuz like name/shlame. "I found it on the street, I'm gonna take it home, It's Free!" This is the stuff rock anthems are made of; this is the stuff I'm made of. This explains the street signs, the collection of unpaired shoes, the bucket of chicken bones, the broken hair dryer, the inbred dalmation, and the Jean Paul Gaultier socks that I'm wearin. There is a reason for the hat that is on my head, the broken skateboard, my collection of used-up lighters and mangled cassette tapes -- it's two words, three syllables and sounds like Smurf faggots. After the show I gave the Maggots my cash for their compact disc of wisdom and Ellen Maggot even signed it (dude, she's left-handed--cool). So, like once I get it I never stop listening to it and cause I have to walk everywhere I find a lot of dope shit including a Portland scandal.. Lemme explain. So, like I'm walking home from the rock arena (dude, OZZY!) And I'm chain smoking some Lucky Strikes and, of course, I'm listening to "It's Free" -- I got'ta 'cause I'm walking and it's my good luck song. Sure enough right as the Maggots are gittin down to business what should be bestowed upon me from the heavens above but a brown Volvo left running and alone. Dude-- what would you do? What would you do if the Maggots were whispering in your ear "I found it on the street, I'm gonna take it home, It's FREEEE!" Dude, I jumped in the car and peeled out'ta there (I mean literally cause I'm only fifteen and like can't even barely drive 'n' shit). And this is where the real Portland scandal begins. How was I to know that my new car belonged to Jody Bleye (record mogul and producer of the surf maggots) and this weird twist of fate would bring me closer than I ever imagined to my rock idols? How was I to know that this moment would lead me to ridicule before the very people that molded my ideology? I knew only that I had to "drive" straight to Corin Maggot's house so we could commit spray paint crimes in the luxury of a get-away car. So this is where it gets freaky-- when I ran into the house Corin Maggot was in her room listening to "The Corpse" which means at the same time I found the brown volvo on the street she had been listening to "It's Free". So what else were we suppose to do, like duh we did what any diehard Maggot fan would do! We rode that lap (of luxury) for two weeks. We were the talk of the school -- fucking fifteen years old and we had our own car. It was truly dazzling, but like ya know all good things must sometime come to an end and all bad things seem to go on forever but I guess we were asking for it when we did seven doughnuts in that dude from Everclear's yard, but what the fuck-- it was all in the name of true rock! So of course we got totally busted and our parents were furious, mine even went as far as cleaning out my room and that's when they found my coveted "Are you there god? It's me, Maggot" cd. They were so fucking furious, they even took it to church and that's when they discovered America's best kept secret-- "It's Free". So I bet you can't even imagine what happened next, well I'll tell you what happened next 'the most embarrassing thing in the world happened next.. My parents wanted to sue Jody Bleye even though I stole her car! They are so dumb! And not only that --they wanted to further humiliate me by suing the Surf Maggots as well. Oh my god, how embarrassing is this one going to be? Me, Max Maggots' first chance outside of a rock arena to meet Josh, Mike, and Ellen and it's in a court room. They are going to think I'm such a dork. I hate my parents! I can't believe that they are going to go through with this. I bet when Corin Maggot gets off groundation she'll never even speak to me again! I'm for sure kicked out of the Maggot's fan club. This is so squidsvillie.

The court date is set for June 7th 1998. Jody Bleye, has left the country for approximately 57 days for reasons that can not be revealed (but our secret sources say that it once again may involve firearms). None of the Surf Maggots were available for a response... more to come in the next issue!

THE SURF MAGGOTS

The Surf Maggots

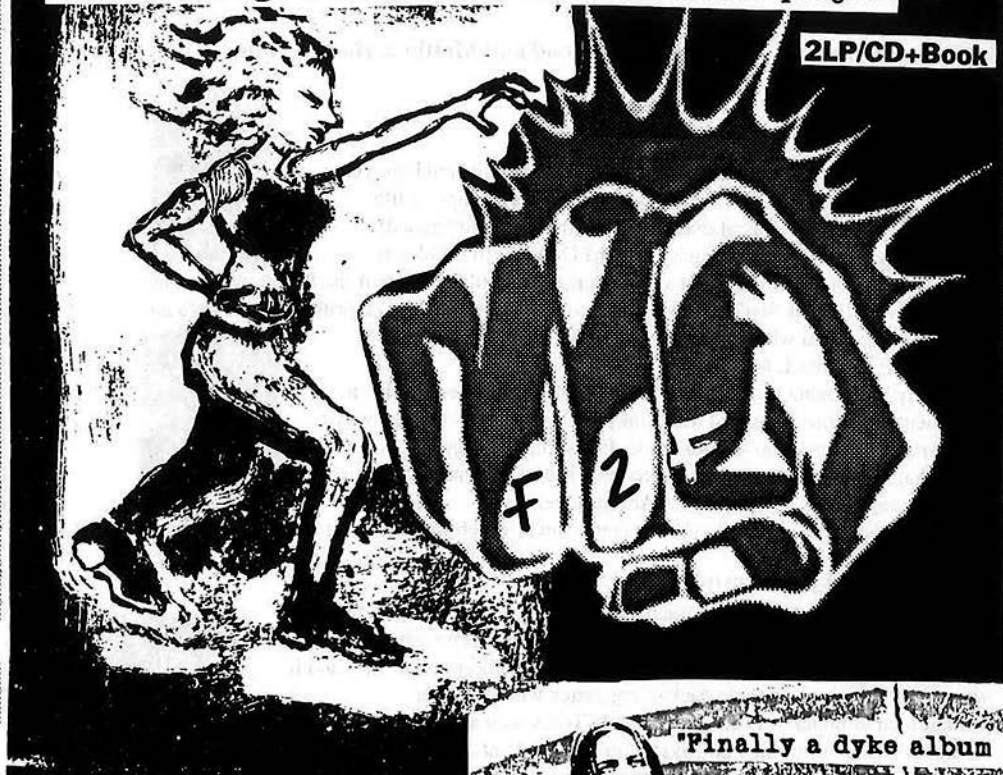

"Are you there God? It's me, Maggot." CD/CS
Ignore the band name. This album is the shit. The Sassiest Boy in America 1991 on drums. "I found it on the street, I'm gonna take it home, it's Free!" YES!

The Surf Maggots are clever- clever clever- one clever for each of them. And Josh is a strange man- a honest good strange man. Listen to the first song on the cd. It's the title track and portal to Josh the Maggot's mind. Ellen is a fucking amazing bass player- I know there are a lot of fucking amazing bass players, she just happens to be one of them. I mean her fingers move really fast and she sounds really good and she can play while jumping up and down wearing a frog mask. This coupled with the fact that Mike can do amazing drum kit tricks induces the kids into a line dancing frenzy. I've seen it happen- the fervent eye to the nearest dancer ending in an emulation of copied dance moves- it's magic- SURF MAGGOT MAGIC. CYN.

A Little conversation with Luke Hollywood and Matthew Hattie Hein.

Favorite planet?

Luke: I like the new planet they found that's a couple hundred light years away, revolves around a sun-like star and is believed to support life (with a very similar chemical make-up to Earth, it is hypothesized) I guess that proves that I'm xenophobic, huh? Oh hell I like Alderan.

Matthew: I know very little about space. Perhaps I would no more if the Simpsons were not on at the same time as StarTrek. Denk once told me "Space is my favorite place." That's not a Sun Ra song; t's just what she told me. Con-Stall-Nation.

FAVORITE PINBALL MACHINE?

L: I really like Funhouse but I'll have to say Mousetrap because it's a sentimental favorite. They had it at Kinky's Kleen'n Korner which was just across the street from my old house. It has this little squeaky voice that says, "you wanna mouse around." But when you put in your quarter it says it in a Monster Truck Ad Baritone.

M: Never touch the stuff myself....It's pretty fun to watch while waiting for the ping-pong table to open up.

WERE YOU EVER A HESHER?

L: Yes. The neighborhood in Portland where I grew up is referred to by the cops as Felony Flats. Up by 82nd and Duke. In 5th grade we would come home from school, smoke pot and shoplift candy and beer at Safeway (and if we were feeling lucky a three pack of cigarettes with whatever promotional gimmick was going that week, Trues with a free flashlight, whatever.) Then off to the Pal Boys' Club (it's the Lents Boys Club now) for soccer practice or foos ball. Eventually, I started going to a school where heshers were the minority (we were called rockers, I didn't hear heshers till recently), and class shame hit pretty hard so my mom started taking us to thrift stores in rich neighborhoods and that effectively ended my hesh phase. All the heshers are happy but the heshers that hides in his heart. Alas.

M: To me, the Heshen phenomenon is almost false nostalgia: where I come from (Portland), the term for people with butt-heads and chew can holes in back pockets was alternately "Carps" or "Rockers." As for my own history, oh I could tell you stories.

Describe your first spiritual experience.

L: Being born probably, but maybe that was just cold and terrifying. I don't remember.

M: I only remember about 6 dreams a year so everyone is a spiritual experience.

HAVE YOU EVER HAD MAJOR SURGERY?

L: I had a rod put into my arm cause it was broken clean through and now I have truly bitchin' scars and rheumatism.

HAVE YOU EVER KILLED ANYONE?

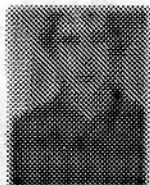

L: I caught a salamander once and named him Newty. I thought he'd be a nice addition to our pet crawdad Clarence (who we kept for almost 4 years) and our Amazon bull frog Amos (who we gave away because his food was too expensive.) Newty got lost in my room the night after I'd taken him to show and tell. He must have climbed into the heating duct and died, we smelled him for about a month and a half. That's probably as close as I've come to killing anyone.

DO YOU REALIZE THERE ARE PARTS ARE YOUR BODY NOT LIVING RIGHT NOW?

L: no.

CAN YOU SHARE ANY HOME REMEDIES OR HOUSEHOLD HINTS WITH US?

M: If you cut a strip of clean bike intertube about 6 inches long it makes a great garlic peeler. Just put the garlic in the tube, push down to break the skin and roll it, pressing gently. Voila! you'll want to wash the garlic so that it doesn't taste like rubber.

Robin Hood- 7" still exists

ARE YOU ON ANY MEDICATION?

L:No. I just did a fast though to help quit smoking and to clean this toxic city out of my blood. I subsisted on this cayenne-organic maple syrup-lemonade. That's almost medicine.

HAVE YOU EVER HAD SEXUAL FEELINGS FOR THE OWNER OF YOUR RECORD LABEL?

L:I don't know if these are really feelings of sex. Well I'll just tell the story. Dave and I used to play in this band, Roger Nusic and the Conceptual Motel 6 on Fire with Diamonds. The band was nominated for a bunch of Portland Music Association Awards, which used to be a big deal in the Mayor's Ball era cause the P.M.A. were loaded and psuedo-prestigious. The awards were at the Marriot and a sort of poser elegant affair. The owner of our label was a late 30's ex-Navy guy who had started the label as a sidelight to his real estate money. He had been working for a major label and had this kind of fake grandeur equals success vibe. Needless to say he took the whole thing far too seriously. He rented a tux, and picked us all up at Roger's in a limo. Dave and I were slumming, we didn't take any part of it seriously. We were along for the ride, often wasted and riding on the waves of comedy that ensued in the wake of the experience. The label guy got us a bunch of beer, Miller Genuine Draft, and when we arrived at the awards and found we were early we decided to cruise in the limo for awhile. We'd hooked up with a friend of mine who rode in the limo with us and got us all hellbaked on hash. We couldn't smoke in the car so we went down by where they were building the new OMSI. Checking out the label guy then, in the red sodium vapor streetlight, earcuff (for rock authenticity), tuxedo, rock-jock hair, smarmy grin, unrealistic expectations for a record that wouldn't make a dime. He'd probably blown 15,000 on us and he was renting a limo!

I guess it wasn't a sexual thing. No, it Definitely wasn't. More an awe for that kind of power. the Power for that kind of judgement error.

Call the Dougher!

Sarah D from Free To Fight sings three unforgettably sexual songs about dyke longing and just sex in general. YES!

Welcome to Gretchen's World via Scout

1. What would you say is the most important thing to know about making love to a lady?

Well. When bedding down a straight girl, it is important to inform her that the sex is going to be intense, and she's not necessarily going to be able to forget it easily. It might be difficult for her to be satisfied again by her well-meaning, premature ejaculating, lovable hunk of a boyfriend who can only keep it up for is one orgasm before falling asleep. Advice regarding lesbian ladies I am afraid I know nothing about.

Can you tell us about an important Lezzie heroine our readers might not be aware of?

My favorites at the moment are the Five Lesbian Brothers, a theater troupe from NYC. They do not have a commitment to presenting a positive portrayals of lesbians. Thus, I find their work extremely interesting in its subject matter. Their last piece, about murderous secretaries, blew my mind open with pleasure alternating with horror. Very worth checking out if they are ever in your area.

Have you ever taken a self-defense class? No. Do you carry a gun? No.

Do you think that soul has a gender? No. Yes. It has neither and both.

What do you think is the most shocking event of the last 10 years?

The methodical way in which the stage is being set for armed civil war in the U.S. People are increasingly afraid of others, and the rise of real-life cop shows depicting the poor and the drug addicted contributes to the ever widening gulf between the just and the law-abiding and the fringe radicals. At least that is how it is perceived. The powers that be (who are becoming more and more powerful each year) would love to see America divided against itself, with the "haves" threatened by the criminalized poor to the extent that they will continue to vote (or not and just let the Right have their way) to keep the poor out of sight and in jail if need be...We Americans feel that one day we will be faced with a "kill or be killed" situation, where the enemy is a fellow American.

What were your ambitions as a child?

I wanted to be an entomologist or an actress. And I wanted to be able to talk to animals.

Describe your ideal date? Last night I went on my ideal date.

I went to see Tom Jones with my beautiful girlfriend, Ann, and my buddy, Candy, and my best friend, Girls in the Nose singer Kay. Candy picked up Ann and me up in her cool Chevy Van with a bed and mood lighting. I made martinis for all of us as we drove around looking for a parking spot. We smoked some hash and listened to a Tom Jones tape very loudly and then went into the gorgeous old Paramount Theater. I felt extremely comfortable in the crowd of Texas women giddy with excitement about seeing Tom Jones. I was with my people, the grey-haired people. They flashed the lights and we went from one hit to one obscure cover after another. Wolfgang Press, Prince, Lenny Kravitz, Bruce Springsteen. His voice was exquisite, his gestures divine. The band was tight and imaginative, and the men and women truly loved him with an almost evangelical fervor that I could really relate to. He gave a hell of a performance. He is my Madonna. When went out to eat afterwards an analyzed the perfection of the show. Then Candy dropped Ann and I off and we made mad passionate love. That's a good date.

Who is your favorite thinker? Martin Luther King, Jr. is my favorite. His belief that we must win over enemies, not vanquish them is a radical and challenging notion that I constantly roll over and over in my mind. He believed in "Soul Force" over physical force. He believed in Love. He is my favorite thinker. Of course, he was inspired by Ghandi and Jesus. Sometimes men do have good ideas.

EUROPEAN FAX FROM THE GREAT ONE

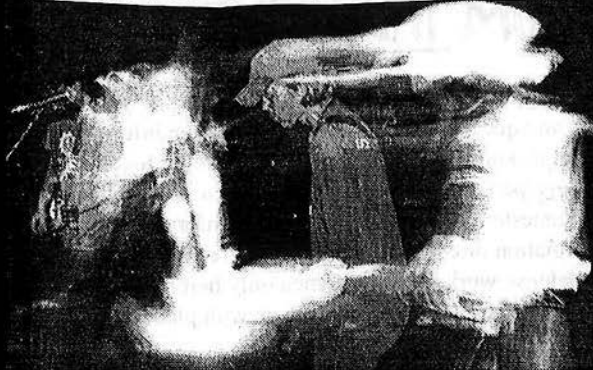

TOURING: We are constantly trying to keep track of all kinds of places to play all over the world, especially all ages and queer-friendly places. If you have information about a place to play, please let us know. Also, you can help us get in touch with college people, or if you are a college person, that really helps because sometimes the booking people change every semester. Max keeps track of the information about tours; you can get that information directly from him. The Free to Fight tour (which comes with a 1 hour self-defense workshop for women only before the show) is always on the verge of happening (I swear), so keep writing us with places where you would like to experience Free to Fight.

MAILORDER: If you have this catalog, you probably know about the revolutionary powers of mailorder. Buying things with cash is good and less alienating (if you want to risk it!). Mailorder is the way to put the monolithic chain stores out of business, plus you can find out about tours, exchange information about what's going on in your life/town/scene, and get to know us. These are the things that will help us fill your orders better: list alternatives, include your address, include your phone number (if you want), and make checks out to CandyAss. If you don't get your order within a month, write or e-mail to tell us what you ordered, when you ordered it, your method of payment, and your name and address....then we will fix our badness quickly (it should take 1-3 weeks to get an order delivered to you.)

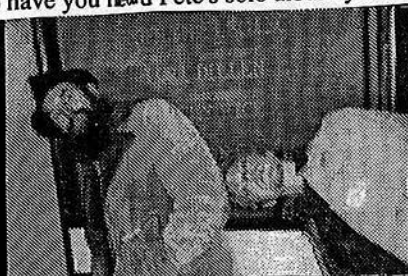

DISTRIBUTION: We are distributed by Revolver USA. If you ask for one of our records in a store and they don't have it, tell them that Revolver is the CandyAss distributor. Revolver is a great independent distributor in San Francisco owned by one man (Gary). Gary has about twelve employees. Some record stores will say that they don't order from Revolver for whatever reason (it's too expensive to ship from the West Coast, Revolver doesn't have enough things that they want to order, they hate Revolver, whatever, etc...) But, do not fear! Revolver sells records to other distributors like Cargo, Caroline, Dutch East, Surefire, and lots more. You can suggest to the store that they can find our stuff from those distributors too. Mailorder is the greatest, but it really helps us if you ask about CandyAss at stores so they hear about us and might order records so people who aren't hooked into mailorder can find stuff like Free to Fight and be psyched when CandyAss bands come through their town. Big Chains do order our stuff, but try to ask these questions at independently-owned stores because there's a better chance that they'll know about it and order it, they need more support, AND they are way nicer to deal with. Without indy record stores, bands outside the Mtv world couldn't flourish. The truth is out there. - JODY ♡ ☺

PS Who was The Kid in The Vinyl pants?

Yo have you heard Pete's solo album yet!?!?

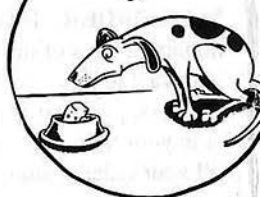

song that I had to learn. The spirit of rock is
